

Centre for Professionalism, Ethics and Public Service
University of Toronto
Symposium
“Can Legal Ethics be Taught?”

Speaker Biographies

Janine Benedet (University of British Columbia)

Janine Benedet is an Associate Professor at the Faculty of Law, U.B.C., where she teaches courses in Criminal Law, Sexual Assault and Labour Law, and where she is the course co-ordinator for the First Year Law in Context program, which includes professional responsibility and legal ethics. She researches and writes on topics which include the criminal law of sexual offences; the legal regulation of pornography and prostitution; sexual harassment in employment and education; and equality in law school and the legal profession.

Professor Benedet has an LL.B. from the University of British Columbia, where she was awarded the Law Society of B.C. Gold Medal, and an LL.M. and S.J.D. from the University of Michigan Law School. Prior to joining U.B.C.’s faculty in 2005, she was a member of the faculty at Osgoode Hall Law School in Toronto from 1999-2005. Professor Benedet is a member of the bars of Ontario (1996) and British Columbia (1999). She was a law clerk to Mr. Justice Frank Iacobucci at the Supreme Court of Canada and practised labour and employment law at the firm of Heenan Blaikie in Toronto.

Joseph Cheng (Department of Justice)

Joseph Cheng is counsel in the Public Law Section of the Department of Justice Canada’s Ontario Regional Office. In this capacity, he acts on behalf of federal government departments and agencies in the areas of constitutional, administrative, employment and human rights law. Joseph was called to the Ontario Bar in 2002. He holds a Bachelor of Laws from the University of Toronto and a Bachelor of Arts & Science from McMaster University. Following law school, he clerked at the Ontario Superior Court of Justice in Toronto. Joseph is currently an executive member with the Ontario Bar Association’s Constitutional, Civil Liberties and Human Rights Law Section, and is a Member of the University of Toronto’s Law Alumni Association Council.

Michael Code (University of Toronto)

Michael Code is an assistant professor at the Faculty of Law. He received his call to the Bar of Ontario in 1981. From 1981 until 1991 he practised with the Toronto firm of Ruby and Edwardh, where he specialized in criminal and constitutional litigation. Prof. Code has lectured in criminal law at Woodsworth College, University of Toronto, and in evidence law at Osgoode Hall Law School. He was an editor of the Canadian Rights Reporter from its inception in 1982 until 1996. He spent 1990 on sabbatical from his law firm studying towards an LL.M at the Faculty of Law. In 1991, Prof. Code was appointed Assistant Deputy Minister, Criminal Law, Ministry of the Attorney General for Ontario. In 1996 he returned to private practice with the firm of Sack Goldblatt Mitchell. He was a visiting scholar at the University of Toronto Faculty of Law in 2005-06, and joined the Faculty full-time in 2006. He received 2007 Mewett Award for Excellence in Teaching. During his career, Prof. Code has argued some of the leading Charter of Rights cases in the Supreme Court of Canada and the Court of Appeal for Ontario. In recent years he has appeared as Commission counsel at the Driskell Inquiry into a wrongful conviction in Manitoba, as counsel to the Ontario Securities Commission in the Rankin, YBM Magnex and Bre-X cases, as counsel to the RCMP in a dispute over production of criminal investigative documents to civil litigants in British Columbia, as counsel to the SIU in relation to various police investigation issues in Ontario, as counsel to the Manitoba Crown in a contempt prosecution where the Chief Justice was the victim, in a successful mediation and resolution of a gang-related "mega-trial" and, finally, as defence counsel in the recent "Air India" terrorism trial in Vancouver.

Brent Cotter (University of Saskatchewan)

Professor Cotter was named Dean of the University of Saskatchewan College of Law on July 1st, 2004.

Dean Cotter received a bachelor of commerce from the University of Saskatchewan in 1971, a bachelor of laws in 1974 and a Master of Laws in 1977, both from Dalhousie University. From 1977 to 1982, he taught at Dalhousie Law School and served terms as Associate Dean and as Executive Director of Dalhousie Legal Aid Service.

From 1992 until 1997, Dean Cotter served as Deputy Minister of Justice and Attorney General for the Province of Saskatchewan. In July of 1997, he was appointed Deputy Minister of Intergovernmental Affairs as well as Deputy Provincial Secretary.

Dean Cotter is the author of "Professional Responsibility Instruction in Canada: A Coordinated Curriculum for Legal Education" (1992).

Adam Dodek (Osgoode Hall Law School)

Adam Dodek is a Visiting Scholar at Osgoode Hall Law School, and will join the faculty of the University of Ottawa, Faculty of Law this summer. At Osgoode, he helped design and teach Ethical Lawyering in a Global Community, a new mandatory course for first-year students. In 2007, he was a Visiting Scholar at the Faculty of Law at the University of Toronto where he taught Legal Process and participated in the Legal Ethics and Professionalism Bridge Week. He is also a visiting fellow at the Centre for Professionalism, Ethics and Public Service. Mr. Dodek's areas of scholarly research include constitutional law, administrative law, the legal process and the legal profession / legal ethics.

Mr. Dodek received his B.A. from McGill University and his J.D., magna cum laude, from Harvard Law School. He received a Fulbright Scholarship to research Israeli constitutional law while simultaneously clerking for the Supreme Court of Israel. After being called to the bar in California, Mr. Dodek practiced law in San Francisco and then clerked for the U.S. Court of Appeals for the 9th Circuit in Pasadena. Mr. Dodek returned to Canada and clerked for the Honourable Claire L'Heureux-Dubé at the Supreme Court of Canada. After being called to the bar in Ontario, he joined the Public Law Working Group in Borden Ladner Gervais LLP's Toronto office where he practiced until the fall of 2003. At that time, he joined the staff of Ontario's Attorney General, the Honourable Michael Bryant, first as Senior Policy Adviser and then as Director of Policy and from 2005-06 as his Chief of Staff. . Mr. Dodek is an S.J.D. Candidate at the University of Toronto's Faculty of Law.

Jocelyn Downie (Dalhousie University)

Jocelyn Downie holds a Canada Research Chair and is a Professor in the Faculties of Law and Medicine at Dalhousie University. Jocelyn has an honours BA and MA in philosophy from Queen's University, an MLitt in philosophy from the University of Cambridge, an LLB from the University of Toronto, and an LLM and SJD from the University of Michigan. Following graduation from law school, she clerked at the Supreme Court of Canada for Chief Justice Lamer. Drawing on training in ethics and law and experience in teaching ethics to health care professionals, she teaches the third year mandatory course Legal Ethics and Professional Responsibility at Dalhousie. She has written about various aspects of legal ethics – most relevant for this symposium, papers on mandatory legal ethics education in law schools and mandatory continuing legal ethics education.

Trevor Farrow (Osgoode Hall Law School)

Trevor Farrow joined the Osgoode faculty in July 2006. Before that he was on the Faculty of Law at the University of Alberta for five years, during which time he was also a Visiting Professor at the University of Toronto, Faculty of Law, at Osgoode Hall Law School, and at Niigata University, Faculty of Law in Japan. Professor Farrow was previously a litigator at the Torys law firm in Toronto, the Ames Fellow at Harvard Law School and a teaching fellow at Harvard College (for which he was awarded two Harvard University certificates of distinction in teaching). Professor Farrow's research and teaching focus on the administration of civil justice, including legal process, dispute resolution, professional ethics, advocacy, globalization and post-conflict development.

Jeremy Fraiberg (Osler)

Jeremy is a partner with Osler, Hoskin & Harcourt, in the Business Law Department in the firm's Toronto office. His practice focuses on corporate and securities law, with a particular emphasis on mergers and acquisitions and corporate finance.

Jeremy was a senior policy advisor to the “Wise Persons’ Committee” appointed by the Deputy Prime Minister and Minister of Finance of the Government of Canada to recommend the best securities regulatory system for Canada. The Committee’s report “It’s Time” was released in December, 2003.

For several years, Jeremy taught a course on contested mergers and proxy contests at the University of Toronto Faculty of Law, and has also been a guest lecturer on venture capital financing.

Following his graduation from the University of Toronto, Jeremy served as a law clerk to Chief Justice Antonio Lamer at the Supreme Court of Canada.

Randal Graham (Western)

Professor Graham was appointed to the Faculty of Law in 2002, and was promoted to the rank of Associate Professor in 2004. In 2005, Dr. Graham was awarded the title of "Faculty Scholar" by the University of Western Ontario in recognition of the widespread international impact of his research. He is the first Western Law professor to earn that title. His principal teaching interests include Statutory Interpretation, Legal Ethics, Company Law and Law & Economics.

In addition to serving on Western’s Faculty of Law, Dr. Graham has been an Assistant Professor at the University of New Brunswick (2000-2002), an Adjunct Professor at Osgoode Hall Law School (1996-present), an Affiliated Scholar with Goodman Phillips & Vineberg (1998-2000); a Commercial Lawyer at Goodman Phillips & Vineberg (1997-1998); a Law Clerk to Mr. Justice Sopinka of the Supreme Court of Canada (1995-1996); and an Editorial Assistant to Justice Sopinka in connection with "The Law of Evidence in Canada" (1996-1997). Dr. Graham continues to act as a litigation strategist and technical consultant in matters dealing with his primary research areas, Statutory Interpretation and Legal Ethics.

Dr. Graham is the author of several books and articles on the topics of statutory interpretation and ethics. His most recent research efforts focus on microeconomic analyses of lawyers’ ethical choices and the economic nature of legal reasoning in the field of statutory interpretation. His latest book, entitled “Legal Ethics: Theories, Cases and Professional Regulation” (July, 2004) explores the economic implications of the regulation of lawyers’ professional conduct, and has been adopted as mandatory reading in several Canadian universities. Dr. Graham's work on Statutory Interpretation has been cited by the Supreme Court of Canada.

Avvy Go (Metro Toronto Chinese & Southeast Asian Legal Clinic)

Avvy Go is the Clinic Director of Metro Toronto Chinese & Southeast Asian Legal Clinic. She received her B.A. in economics and management studies from the University of Waterloo, LL.B. from the University of Toronto, and LL.M. from Osgoode Hall Law School. Since her call to the Bar in 1991, she has worked exclusively in the legal clinic system, serving the needs of low income individuals and families, the majority of whom are non-English speaking immigrants and refugees. Immigration, human rights, and employment law are some of the main areas of law that she practices in. Between 2001 and 2003, she was a bencher of the Law Society of Upper Canada. Re-elected in November, 2007, she is currently a bencher and a member of the Access to Justice Committee and the Equity and Aboriginal Issues Committee. Since 2005, she has been a part time member of the Health Professions Appeal and Review Board. Apart from her legal practice, Avvy spends much time in doing community organizing and advocacy work. She was involved in a number of community organizations serving as the Vice-Chair of the Court Challenges Program of Canada, President of the Chinese Canadian National Council (Toronto Chapter) and board member of the Urban Alliance on Race Relations. She co-founded the STATUS Campaign – a campaign for regularization of status for non-status immigrants, and the Colour of Poverty Campaign – a campaign to address the increasing racialization of poverty in Ontario.

Allan Hutchinson (Osgoode Hall Law School)

Allan Hutchinson is a Distinguished Research Professor at Osgoode Hall Law School. A member of Osgoode's faculty since 1982, Professor Allan Hutchinson served as Associate Dean from 1994 to 1996 and later, in 2003, he was named Associate Dean (Research, Graduate Studies and External Relations). Professor Hutchinson is a legal theorist with an international reputation for his original and provocative writings. He was elected to the Royal Society of Canada in 2004 and named a Distinguished Research Professor by York University in 2006. His research interests are law and politics; legal theory; the legal profession; constitutional law; torts; jurisprudence; civil procedure; and racism and law. As well as publishing in most of the common-law world's leading law journals, he has written or edited many books. Much of his work has been devoted to examining the failure of law to live up to its democratic promise. His latest publication is Evolution and the Common Law (New York: Cambridge University Press, 2005).

Freya Kristjanson (Borden Ladner Gervais)

Freya Kristjanson is a partner in the Toronto office of Borden Ladner Gervais LLP, where she practices in the areas of public law and commercial litigation, and serves as National Chair of the Class Action Practice Group. She is a graduate of Queen's University, B.A. (Hons.) and the University of Victoria (LL.B.) and clerked for Mr. Justice W.R. McIntyre at the Supreme Court of Canada. She was called to the Bar of Ontario in 1989. Ms. Kristjanson has appeared as counsel before the Supreme Court of Canada, the Federal Courts, all levels of court in Ontario, and numerous administrative tribunals, acting for both public and private sector clients. Freya also has extensive public inquiry experience. She was Legal Counsel to the Commission of Inquiry into the Actions of Canadian Officials in Relation to Maher Arar, Commission Counsel to the Walkerton Inquiry, counsel to the Rt. Hon. Kim Campbell and staff at the Somalia Inquiry, and Assistant Commission Counsel to the Hryciuk Inquiry. Freya is a Past Chair of the Ontario Bar Association Constitutional and Civil Liberties Section, and teaches trial advocacy at U of T Law School and for the Advocates' Society. She also teaches Administrative Law at U of T Law School.

Janet Leiper (Osgoode Hall Law School)

Janet Leiper is the Director of the Osgoode Public Interest Requirement and Visiting Professor, Public Interest Law at Osgoode Hall Law School. Since her call to the Bar in 1987, Ms. Leiper has practised criminal and administrative law. She was the Chair of Legal Aid Ontario from 2004-2007 and prior to that, counsel to the Ontario Review Board. She is an Alternate Chair of the Nunavut Review Board and for eight years, she was a legal member and an Alternate Chair of the Ontario Review Board. Ms. Leiper is a certified specialist in criminal law.

Trudo Lemmens (University of Toronto)

Trudo Lemmens is Associate Professor at the Faculties of Law and Medicine of the University of Toronto. He holds degrees from the Katholieke Universiteit Leuven (K.U.Leuven) (Cand.Jur., Lic.Jur.) and from McGill University (LL.M. bioethics; Doctorate in Civil Law). In the last five years, he has been a member of the Institute for Advanced Studies in Princeton, a visiting fellow of the Royal Flemish Academy of Belgium for Science and the Arts, and a visiting professor at the K.U.Leuven and the University of Otago (New Zealand). Prior to his appointment in the Faculty of Law, he worked as a bioethicist at the Centre for Addiction and Mental Health in Toronto and as a researcher at McGill University, the Université de Montréal, and the K.U.Leuven. He is currently also associated with the Joint Centre for Bioethics, the Centre for Ethics, and the Centre for Innovation Law and Policy of the University of Toronto.

Trudo Lemmens' research currently focuses on the role of law and regulation in the context of medical research and biotechnological innovation, looking particularly at how law and policy can contribute to the promotion of ethics standards. He is the co-author of Reading the future? Legal and Ethical Challenges of Predictive Genetic Testing (Montreal: Les Éditions Thémis, 2007) and co-editor of Law and Ethics in Biomedical Research: Regulation, Conflict of Interest, and Liability (Toronto: University of Toronto Press, 2006). In addition to various chapters in books on health law and bioethics, his articles appeared in the University of Toronto Law Journal; the McGill Law Journal; the Hastings Center Report; the Journal of Law, Medicine and Ethics; Social Science and Medicine; the Canadian Medical Association Journal; Perspectives in Biology and Medicine; PLoS Medicine; and other law, ethics and science journals. He has been teaching courses in the areas of health law, bioethics and professional ethics.

Mayo Moran (University of Toronto)

Professor Mayo Moran is Dean of the Faculty of Law and James Marshall Tory Dean's Chair since 2006. A Professor at the Faculty of Law, University of Toronto, Professor Moran served as Associate Dean from January 2000 to July 2003. Professor Moran completed her LL.B. at McGill University (1990) and subsequently obtained an LL.M. from the University of Michigan (1992) and an S.J.D from the University of Toronto (1999). She attended the University of British Columbia for her B.A (1980, English and Sociology) and teacher training (1981) and subsequently taught at the secondary level before attending law school. After serving as director of the Aboriginal Students' Academic Support Program at the University of Toronto Faculty of Law in 1994-1995, she was appointed assistant professor in 1995 and became an associate professor in 2000.

Professor Moran teaches in both private and public law. She teaches torts in the first year curriculum and, in 2001 and 2002, also organized an intensive bridge week for the first year class entitled Redressing Historic Injustice. Her upper year courses include comparative constitutional equality, fault and responsibility, and trusts. In 2005-2006 she is also supervising a group of graduate students who are working on transitional justice issues in the residential schools context.

Professor Moran has published in comparative constitutional law, private law, and legal and feminist theory. Her book Rethinking the Reasonable Person was published in 2003 by Oxford University Press. In 2005, she was co-editor with Prof. David Dyzenhaus of Calling Power to Account: Law, Reparations and the Chinese Canadian Head Tax Case, a book of essays published by the University of Toronto Press. Prof. Moran has also organized a number of conferences. These include a colloquium entitled "Facing the Legacy of Indian Residential Schools in Canada: International Lessons in Truth, Reparation and Reconciliation" co-organized with Professor Darlene Johnston and the International Centre for Transitional Justice (Sept 2005), "Equality: The Heart of a Just Society--Looking Back, Looking Forward" with Professor Lorraine Weinrib and the Department of Justice (October 2005), and "Achieving Human Rights in a Multicultural Society: Reparations, Human Rights and the Limits of Law" with Professor with David Dyzenhaus (2003).

Janet Mosher (Osgoode Hall Law School)

Janet Mosher is an Associate Professor at Osgoode Hall Law School. During the 2006-07 academic year Professor Janet Mosher was the 2006 Virtual Scholar in Residence Program, a joint initiative of the Law Commission of Canada (LCC) and the Social Sciences and Humanities Research Council of Canada (SSHRC). She is one of three virtual scholars who will spend eight months working with the LCC exploring different research themes. Professor Mosher's research project is entitled "Access To Justice: A New Policy Framework." Professor Mosher joined Osgoode Hall Law School's faculty in 2001 after teaching at the Faculty of Law and the Faculty of Social Work at the University of Toronto, where she was also the Director of the Combined LLB/MSW program. She has practised as an associate in the areas of labour law, constitutional law and general civil litigation. From 2001 to 2004 she was the Academic Director of the Intensive Program in Poverty Law at Parkdale Community Legal Services. Her research has focused on legal interventions that impact upon women abused in their intimate relationships, and she is currently engaged in a research project exploring the multiple ways in which state policies and practices are implicated in sustaining woman abuse. She has also published on poverty law and access to justice for disadvantaged groups. Professor Mosher is co-editor of Disorderly People: Law and the Politics of Exclusion in Ontario (Halifax: Fernwood Press, 2002) and co-author of the reports, Walking on Eggshells, Abused Women's Experiences of Ontario's Welfare System, April, 2004 and Welfare Fraud: The Constitution of Social Assistance as Crime, March, 2005.

Stephen Pitel (Western)

Stephen G.A. Pitel is an Associate Professor at the Faculty of Law at the University of Western Ontario. He has a B.A. from Carleton University, an LL.B. from Dalhousie University, and an LL.M. and Ph.D. from the University of Cambridge. His teaching and research is focused on international commercial litigation, civil procedure, torts, unjust enrichment and legal ethics. Professor Pitel is the editor of Litigating Conspiracy: An Analysis of Competition Class Actions (2006), co-editor of Emerging Issues in Tort Law (2007) and co-author of Cases and Materials on the Law of Torts, 7th ed. (2007). He created the Legal Ethics and Professionalism Teaching Materials Database, spearheaded the creation of Western Law's current legal ethics course and serves on a subcommittee planning group of the Chief Justice of Ontario's Advisory Committee on Professionalism.

Paul Paton (Queen's University)

Paul Paton joined the Faculty of Law at Queen's in 2004. Paul will join the faculty at Pacific McGeorge Law in Sacramento, California as Associate Professor this summer. He will serve as Director of McGeorge's "Ethics Across the Professions" initiative, and be associated with the school's Global Business Institute and its Government Law and Policy Center.

His teaching and research interests centre on legal ethics and professional responsibility, corporate governance, the regulation of accountants and lawyers, and ethics in corporate contexts. He is Vice-Chair of the Canadian Bar Association's National Ethics and Professional Issues Committee. He was named a Fellow of the US National Institute on the Teaching of Ethics and Professionalism in 2005 and 2006. He organized the Queen's Annual Business Law Symposium in 2005, 2006 and 2007, and the Chief Justice of Ontario's Advisory Committee on Professionalism Kingston Colloquium on Professionalism in the Legal Profession in October 2005. He is a Fellow of the Salzburg Seminar on Globalization & the Development of Transnational Legal Services (2002), and was Director of the Queen's ISC International Law Program in 2006. He served on the Law Society of Upper Canada's Advisory Committee on Professional Responsibility, taught in and prepared materials for the Bar Admission Course for a number of years, and served on teams drafting licensing examinations in Business Law and Professional Responsibility.

Paul was Senior Manager and in-house counsel with PricewaterhouseCoopers between 1998 and 2004, providing legal, policy and strategic advice and heading the firm's Canadian multidisciplinary practice initiative. He served as Justice and Social Policy Advisor to the Premier of Ontario in 1997-98. He was Associate and Acting Director of the Canadian Studies program at the University of Toronto between 1994-97 and 2000-01, and practiced as Associate and Partner in the litigation group of Davies, Ward & Beck between 1994 and 1997. In 1992-93 he clerked for Chief Justice Charles Dubin, Associate Chief Justice John Morden and five other Justices of the Ontario Court of Appeal. Paul received his B.A. with high distinction from the University of Toronto and was named Moss Scholar as top all-round graduate in the Faculty of Arts & Science his graduating year. He holds an M.Phil from Cambridge (1989), an LL.B. from the University of Toronto (1992), a J.S.M. degree from Stanford (2002), and he completed his J.S.D. at Stanford in 2008. He was a Fellow of Stanford's Keck Center on Legal Ethics and the Legal Profession between 2002 and 2004, and was awarded Shultz Grants in Canadian Studies from the Stanford Institute for International Studies in 2002 and 2003. He received an Arbor Award for distinguished volunteer service from the University of Toronto in 1995.

Lorne Sossin (University of Toronto)

Professor Lorne Sossin is a Professor at the Faculty of Law, University of Toronto and former Associate Dean (2004-2007). He is the Director of the Faculty of Law's new Centre for Professionalism, Ethics and Public Service (2008-). His teaching interests span administrative law, public administration, professional regulation, civil litigation, ethics & professionalism and legal process. He was the recipient of the Mewett Teaching Award in 2003 and 2004.

Professor Sossin holds doctorates in Law from Columbia University and in Political Science from the University of Toronto. Prior to joining U. of T. in 2002, he was a faculty member at Osgoode Hall Law School, York University and was an Associate-in-Law at Columbia Law School. He is also a former litigation lawyer with Borden & Elliot (now Borden Ladner Gervais) and a former law clerk to the Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Canada.

Professor Sossin is the author of over 50 articles and books including Boundaries of Judicial Review: The Law of Justiciability in Canada (Toronto: Carswell, 1999), Public Law (Toronto: Carswell, 2002) (with Michael J. Bryant), Access to Care, Access to Justice: The Legal Debate on Private Health Insurance in Canada (Colleen Flood, Kent Roach & Lorne Sossin, eds.) (Toronto: University of Toronto Press, 2005); and Dilemmas of Solidarity: Rethinking Redistribution in the Canadian Federation (Sujit Choudhry, Jean-Francois Gaudreault-Desbrien & Lorne Sossin eds.) (Toronto: University of Toronto Press, 2006).

Professor Sossin is a frequent advisor to government and has been commissioned to write papers for the Gomery Inquiry, the Ipperwash Inquiry, the Panel on the Role of Government and the Expert Commission on Pensions, in addition to the Inquiry into Pediatric Forensic Pathology headed by Justice Stephen Goudge. He is a part-time member of the Health Professions Appeal and Review Board, and serves on the Boards of the Law Foundation of Ontario, Pro Bono Law Ontario, and the Ontario Justice Education Network.

Robert Wai (Osgoode Hall Law School)

Robert Wai is an Associate Professor at Osgoode Hall Law School. He has been a professor at Osgoode Hall Law School since 1998 and was appointed Associate Dean of the Law School in January 2006. He is also the former Director of the York University Centre for Public Law and Public Policy. Prior to joining Osgoode, Professor Wai served as law clerk to Justice Gérard La Forest of the Supreme Court of Canada, articulated at the firm of Russell & DuMoulin in Vancouver, and worked as an associate in corporate/commercial law with the firm of Debevoise & Plimpton in New York. He teaches International Trade Regulation and International Business Transactions. A Rhodes Scholar at Oxford University and a Fulbright Scholar at Harvard Law School, where he wrote his doctoral dissertation on structures of policy argumentation in private international law, Professor Wai's current research focuses on governance through public and private law in areas such as international business transactions and transnational litigation.

Alice Woolley (University of Calgary)

Alice Woolley is an Assistant Professor at the Faculty of Law at the University of Calgary. She specializes in legal ethics and has published articles regarding the ethics of billing, the good character requirement for law society admission, access to justice, civility, legal ethics teaching and the standard conception of the Canadian lawyer. She is currently working (with a number of other Canadian academics) on a casebook for teaching legal ethics and professional responsibility. Professor Woolley's secondary interests are in the areas of administrative law and energy regulation.