

Reforming Criminal Justice and National Security

Hosted by U of T Faculty of Law and Supported by the Pierre Elliott Trudeau Foundation. Co-sponsored by the Criminal Law Quarterly and the Counter-Terrorism Law and Policy Group, Global Justice Lab at the Munk School of Global Affairs.

Tuesday May 30, 2017

University of Toronto Faculty of Law, 84 Queens Park,
Solarium 10 am-5pm with reception to follow

This symposium is designed to produce a special double issue of the Criminal Law Quarterly that will reflect on the processes and challenges of reforming criminal justice and national security.

The aim is to examine specific contexts of pressing concerns that may be the subject of anticipated legislation including expected amendments to Ontario's Police Services Act, expected amendments to the Criminal Code and expected amendments to the Anti-Terrorism Act, 2015 and related national security legislation.

The symposium is designed to bring academics, policy-makers and practitioners together for frank and open discussion of matters of common concern and pressing importance.

The symposium will end with a panel on general reflections about the process of criminal justice and national security reform.

Agenda

10.00 am -10.10 am welcome and opening

Kent Roach, University of Toronto Faculty of Law

Dorothy Peters, Traditional Teacher, Aboriginal Legal Services

Morning Panel on Criminal Justice 10.15 am-12.00 pm

Chair: Cheryl Milne, Asper Centre for Constitutional Rights

Amanda Carling, University of Toronto, Faculty of Law on Wrongful Convictions and Reforming the Guilty Plea Process

Emma Cunliffe, Peter Allard School of Law, University of British Columbia on Public Inquiries and Wrongful Convictions

Jonathan Freedman, University of Toronto, Department of Psychology on wrongful convictions and forensic science

Jonathan Rudin, York University and Aboriginal Legal Services on Equality and Indigenous Persons

Lorne Sossin, Osgoode Hall Law School with Kent Roach on the Tulloch Report and Independent Review of the Police

Lunch provided 12-1.00pm

Afternoon Panel on National Security 1.00 pm-3pm

Chair: Justice Robert Sharpe, Ontario Court of Appeal

Carmen Cheung, Munk School of Global Affairs on Accountability and Algorithms

Stanley Cohen, Munk School of Global Affairs on CSIS and the Inspector General

Craig Forcese, University of Ottawa, Common Law on Reforming the Relation Between Intelligence and Evidence

John Norris, University of Toronto, Faculty of Law, CSIS Human Source Privilege

Reem Zaia, University of Toronto, Faculty of Law and Henein Hutchison LLP on Sentencing and Rehabilitation in Terrorism Cases.

Coffee Break 3-3.30 pm

Reflections on Six Decades of Criminal Justice and National Security Reform 3.30-4.40 pm

Chair, Benjamin Berger, Osgoode Hall Law School

M.L. Friedland, University of Toronto

Kent Roach, University of Toronto

Presentation

Geneviève Vallerand, Canada Council for the Arts (613) 790-4294

Dr. Valérie Laflamme, Social Sciences Humanities Research Council

Closing: Dorothy Peters, Traditional Teacher, Aboriginal Legal Services

Reception 4.40 pm

