

CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS

DEADLINE: November 2nd, 2017

You're in Good Company

Publishing with the DJLS means Contributing to a 25-year track record of excellence in student legal scholarship. Our journal has been cited by courts at all levels, including the Supreme Court of Canada.

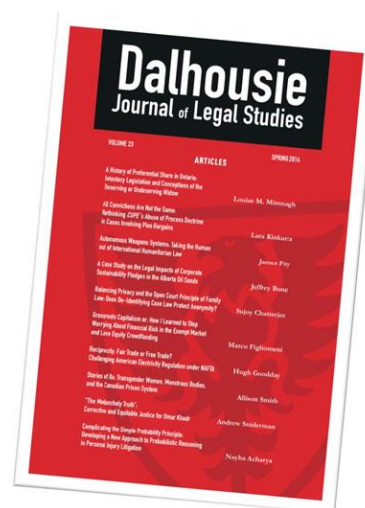

Requirements

The DJLS publishes articles, case comments, notes, interviews, memoranda, and reviews relating to contemporary issues, only in Canadian or international law. (Note: We will not publish articles that focus exclusively on American domestic law).

Submissions are based on originality, contribution to existing legal literature, and writing style. The DJLS only publishes works of the highest quality. Authors selected for publication must agree to publish their paper exclusively with the DJLS. Authors who wish to withdraw their submissions at any point should notify the DJLS as soon as possible. We expect to contact successful authors in February 2018.

How to Submit Your Paper:

1. Go to <http://www.djls.org/user/register>.
2. Complete your profile by filing in the form.
3. Check the box that says "Register as: Author."
4. Click "Register"
5. Under "Start a New Submission" click the link that says, "CLICK HERE to go to step one of the five-step submission process".
6. Follow the on-screen instructions to submit your article for consideration before 11:59 PM on November 2nd, 2017. (For the drop-down menu asking "online supplement" or "comments and notes", select the latter.)

Note: We will not accept email submissions. To preserve impartiality in our editorial process, we kindly ask that you do not include the author's name in the filename or body of the submitted text. Papers should not normally exceed 15,000 words, including footnotes, and must conform to the Canadian Guide to Uniform Legal Citation (McGill Guide), 8th edition (2014). We invite you to contact us with any questions by emailing djls@dal.ca. More information is also available on our website at www.djls.org.

Who We Are

Established in 1991, the Dalhousie Journal of Legal Studies (DJLS) is a non-profit, academic journal that publishes original writings from students who are currently enrolled in an undergraduate or graduate law program, or who have graduated from a law program within the past year. It is a forum to promote reflection and debate on contemporary legal issues and serves as a unique vehicle for students from Canada and abroad to publish their work.

The DJLS is published once per year and maintains a broad subscription base including law school libraries, law firms, corporations, government departments, alumni and legal practitioners domestically and internationally. The journal is also indexed in the HeinOnline database. The DJLS is headquartered at Dalhousie University's Schulich School of Law in Halifax, Nova Scotia, Canada.