

Environmental Charities and Political Activities

How far can charities go?

In recent years, that question has led to much controversy culminating in political activities audits of environmental and human rights charities by the CRA.

Join Prof. Adam Parachin of Western University, and Mark Blumberg of Blumberg Segal LPP as they explain:

- What charities can and can't do
- What the controversy was all about
- What actually happens in a political activities audit and what it means for the public
