

The Program on
ETHICS in LAW and
BUSINESS

Dual Class Share Structures
Roundtable
October 20, 2015
Munk Centre, University of Toronto

The Program on Ethics in Law and Business at the Faculty of Law, University of Toronto invites you to attend a roundtable on dual class share structures from 11:30 – 2:00 pm on October 20, 2015 at the Munk Centre. In addition to addressing the advantages and disadvantages of dual class structures, the roundtable will examine governance issues, international trends, minority shareholder rights, the role of corporate versus securities law, and the need for policy reforms, if any. The topic is especially relevant given the number of IPOs recently in which a dual class structure is present (e.g. Cara, Stingray) as well as regulatory attention that is being paid to these structures in other jurisdictions (e.g. France, Hong Kong).

This program provides 1.25 hours of LSUC substantive CPD credits

Welcome and Introductions:

Edward Iacobucci, Dean, Faculty of Law, University of Toronto

Speakers:

Anita Anand, Professor of Law and Academic Director, Centre for the Legal Profession

Stephen Erlichman, Executive Director, Canadian Coalition for Good Governance

Naizam Kanji, Director, Office of Mergers and Acquisitions, Ontario Securities Commission

Rob Prichard, Chair, Torys and Chair, BMO Financial Group

Closing Remarks:

The Hon. Henry N.R. Jackman

To register, please contact Nadia Gulezko by telephone: 416.978.6767 or by email: n.gulezko@utoronto.ca.

Cost is $75.00 per person. No fee for students.

If you have any questions, please contact anita.anand@utoronto.ca