

CALL FOR SUBMISSIONS

The Lakehead Law Journal is a refereed, open access journal that publishes articles, case comments, book reviews, and book notes on legal issues in Canada. The LLJ is run by an Editorial Team made up of both students and faculty, with Professor Daniel Dylan serving as Editor-in-Chief. We are currently seeking submissions for Volumes 3:3 (Fall 2019) and 4:1 (Winter 2020).

---

Call for Submissions Vol. 3, Issue 3 (2019) – Special Issue: Indigenous Knowledge, Cultural Heritage, Traditional Knowledge, and Traditional Cultural Expressions

The LLJ is pleased to invite submissions on our upcoming special issue. We are currently seeking articles focused broadly on Indigenous Knowledge, Cultural Heritage, Traditional Knowledge, and Traditional Cultural Expressions and their intersections with Canadian and International law.

The LLJ fills a significant niche in the legal scholarship landscape. In addition to focusing on our three mandates (Aboriginal and Indigenous Law, Natural Resources and Environmental Law, and Sole/Small Town Practice with the Integrated Practice Curriculum (IPC)), we also publish papers that are shorter than typical academic articles. Our hope is that shorter pieces (7,000 words) will be more accessible to busy lawyers and judges, making them more likely to be cited in judgments and play a part in shaping the law.

Please visit llj.lakeheadu.ca for information on the online submission process, requirements, and journal policies. All new authors seeking to make a submission must register at the site. The registration process is simple and once registered, authors can not only submit work, but also review the status of their submissions.

Any inquiries should be directed to Jordynne Hislop or Erin Chochla, Managing Editors, at lawjournal@lakeheadu.ca.

The LLJ appreciates all submissions and is committed to providing an update on the status of submissions within six weeks.

Deadline for Submissions: October 21, 2019

Call for Submissions Vol. 4, Issue 1 (2020) – Special Issue: Access to Justice in Canada

The LLJ is pleased to invite submissions on our second upcoming special issue. We are currently seeking articles broadly focused on Access to Justice in Canada.

The LLJ fills a significant niche in the legal scholarship landscape. In addition to focusing on our three mandates (Aboriginal and Indigenous Law, Natural Resources and Environmental Law, and Sole/Small Town Practice with the Integrated Practice Curriculum (IPC)), we also publish papers that are shorter than typical academic articles. Our hope is that shorter pieces (7,000 words) will be more accessible to busy lawyers and judges, making them more likely to be cited in judgments and play a part in shaping the law.

Please visit llj.lakeheadu.ca for information on the online submission process, requirements, and journal policies. All new authors seeking to make a submission must register at the site. The registration process is simple and once registered, authors can not only submit work, but also review the status of their submissions.

Any inquiries should be directed to Jordynne Hislop or Erin Chochla, Managing Editors, at lawjournal@lakeheadu.ca.

The LLJ appreciates all submissions and is committed to providing an update on the status of submissions within six weeks.

Deadline for Submissions: February 3, 2019

We also accept case comments and book review submissions and will do so for each of the special issues referred to above.